

Design

Labelling your ideas can help clarify your thinking and give rise to questions that improve the functionality of your design. Your designs can be used to create a prototype.

Drawing

Zentangle Patterns

A zentangle is an abstract drawing created using repetitive patterns. The zentangle method is a form of artistic meditation.

Painting

Impressionism

Impressionist painters such as Claude Monet did not paint photographically and perfectly realistically. Instead, they show loose brush strokes and include movement in their work.

Impressionist painters did not paint religious paintings or portraits of famous people. They wanted to paint new types of subjects that hadn't been painted before, such as everyday scenes, landscapes and sunlight.

Edward Hopper

'Nighthawks' (1942) by Edward Hopper.

Hopper did several paintings depicting urban life. This painting, like most of his work, is based in realism.
