

Year 4

Supporting your child with English at home

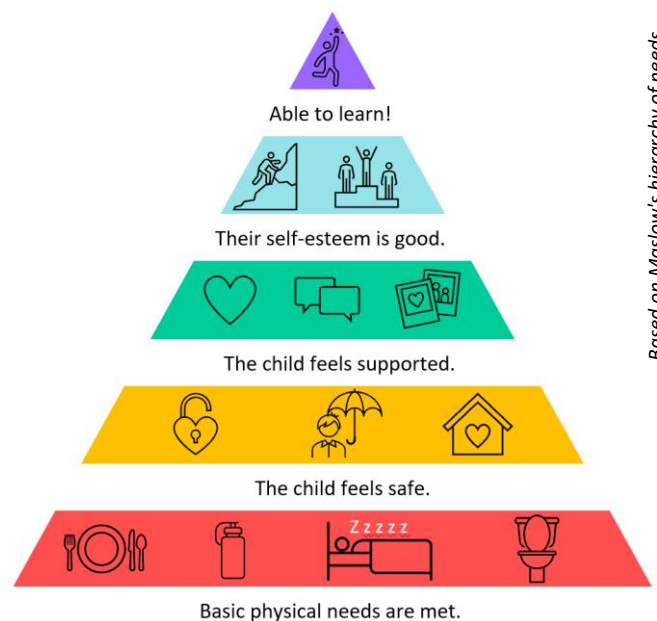

Home-learning can be challenging for both you and your child as everyone is adapting to this unusual situation. The following advice aims to offer helpful, practical tips with supporting your child's reading and writing while at home.

Preparing to learn: some top tips

- Ensure your child's basic needs have been met: Are they thirsty, for example?
- Make sure your child has a clear space to work. Think about the task they have to do – where might they be the most productive/ comfortable?
- Create a new routine that works around your family. If possible, involve your child in establishing routines that will enable them to manage the tasks set for them. Your routines should include regular breaks, ideally with fresh air.
- Tackle tasks in short bursts if your child is finding it difficult to concentrate.
- Where possible, allow your child choices. For example, if your child has been given two tasks for the day, give them the choice of which one to do first.
- Model positive behaviours to your child. Talk about the strategies you use to help you get through your daily tasks. If something isn't working, talk it through.
- Look for the positives: things won't always go according to plan. Try to focus on what is going well rather than what has gone wrong. Try to support your child with lots of praise and encouragement.
- Consider family wellbeing: <https://www.nhs.uk/oneyou/every-mind-matters/>
- Tips for anxiety: <https://www.childrens.com/health-wellness/8-tips-for-managing-childrens-anxiety-about-covid-19>

Based on Maslow's hierarchy of needs

Giving just the right amount of support

It's important that you try to encourage independence when working with your child.

You can do this by:

Self-scaffolding - This is where your child is working largely by themselves.

Prompting - You can give a prompt when your child needs just a little help to carry on working by themselves. For example, 'What do you need to do first?'; 'What's your plan?'; 'You can do this!'

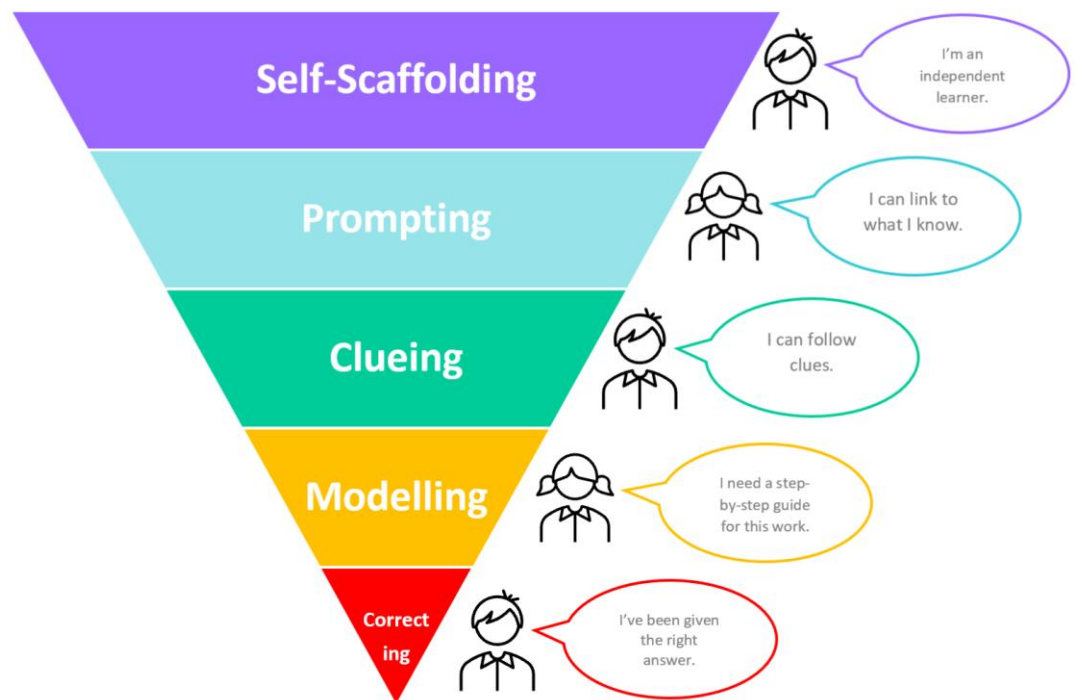

Clueing - Your child might need a hint about their work to keep them on track. Always start with a small clue, then give a bigger clue if your child needs one. For example, 'What does a sentence always begin with?' or 'Let's go back and re-read this sentence again... I think you might have missed something out.'

Modelling - Sometimes it is really useful for you to model what to do while your child watches and listens. Your child should try the same step for themselves immediately afterwards.

Correcting – Only very occasionally, you may need to give your child answers.

Try to encourage your child to work independently as much as they can.

Adapted from: Bosanquet, P., Radford, J. and Webster, R. (2016)

Completing tasks

It's also important not to be too concerned about your child completing every single task. If your child has tried hard but has not been able to complete a task, let your child's teacher know. Your child's teacher recognises how challenging working at home can be for you and your child. Do what you can: Everybody's circumstances are different and we do understand that.

Take care of yourself too!

Looking after yourself will have an impact on how you support your child at home. Fresh air each day if possible, a few moments of quiet, enough water to drink and some exercise are all good places to start. Be kind to yourself!

(Adapted from the Book Trust Website)

<https://www.booktrust.org.uk/news-and-features/features/2020/june/how-to-help-your-children-return-to-school-5-top-tips/>

©School Improvement Liverpool 2020

Why is reading so important?

There is a vast amount of research that shows us how important reading with our children is. It helps to improve your child's concentration and memory, develop their imagination, empathy, vocabulary and listening skills and takes them (and us!) to places we might never otherwise visit. It's also excellent for wellbeing.

The Importance of Reading Aloud to your Child

As your child's confidence grows in reading independently, it is still extremely beneficial for you to read aloud to them. In fact, research shows that reading aloud to your child will improve their reading and listening skills and academic performance and success.

How else does reading aloud to your child help?

-  Positive modelling: Your child will hear how the book should be read - with lots of expression and at just the right speed.
-  It improves comprehension: Your child will be able to focus on what's happening in the story or on the information in the text, rather than having to work hard to read it aloud themselves.
-  It sparks curiosity and a thirst for learning: Reading aloud to your child allows them to access a wider range of texts beyond what they can read by themselves. You could choose to read fiction, factual books and news articles, for example. It encourages life-long learning.
-  It is wonderful for bonding: It's a lovely opportunity for you to spend some dedicated time with your child, showing them how important they are and how important reading is.

Getting the Most Out of Reading with your Child

Watch this short video from The Open University to help you get the most out of reading with your child

Book Chat: Book Chat: Reading to your Child The House that Once Was:
<https://youtu.be/zNqG-RlwrIM>

Listening to Your Child Read Aloud

- Try to listen to your child read aloud daily (5 - 10 minutes is long enough) or chat with them about what they are reading.
- Choose a quiet, undistracted time and get comfortable.
- Support your child by encouraging them with any books being sent home by school. Keep in close contact with school if you have any concerns or want to share successes.
- When your child tries to 'sound out' words, encourage the use of phonics letter sounds rather than 'alphabet names'. So for 'along' you'd say a-l-o-n-g, not A-L-O-N-G.
- Be positive and give lots of praise!

Join the FREE
online library

<https://www.readliverpool.co.uk/>

You can borrow 8 virtual books at a time for free!

7 Top Tips to Support Reading at Home

Shared reading is a great way to develop children's language and communication and to boost their reading skills. Regular reading routines can offer lots of opportunities for learning during school closures.

1 Concentrate on reading quality (it isn't all about reading lots!)

Don't worry too much about the 'what' and 'how' of reading each day. Books are great—but leaflets, comics, recipes and instructions on a webpage can all be great too. Following a recipe to make some cupcakes is valuable reading. Be on the lookout for reading, wherever it is!

2 Ask your child lots of questions

All reading matters. Shared reading is about 'reading with', not just 'reading to' (even for older children). So, ask lots of 'Wh' questions, such as Who? What? When? Where? Why? Try them when talking about books: for example, 'what do you think Harry is feeling?'

3 Ask your child to make predictions about what they have read

If it is a book, look at the front cover—or the last chapter—and talk about what might happen next. Look for clues in the book and be a reading detective! For example, 'can you see the bear on the front cover? Where do you think he will go?'

4 Ask your child to summarise what they have read

When you've finished reading, talk about what happened. Acting out the things that happened in the story or describing the big idea of a chapter is really fun and maximises learning. For example, 'can you remember all the things that happened on the bear hunt?'

5 Ask your child to write about what they have read

Write, or draw pictures, from anything you've read! Big writing and pictures are even more fun. For example, use an old roll of wallpaper to make a treasure map with clues from the stories you've read together.

6 Read and discuss reading with friends or family

Make books a part of the family. Encourage your child to share them with a relative or friend, over a video call. Laugh about them when you are making meals together. For example, 'I hope the tiger doesn't come to tea today!'

7 Maintain the motivation to read

Talk about the joy of reading whenever you can. Your child is on an amazing journey to becoming a reader. Put them in the driving seat and have fun on the way! For example, 'choose your favourite story for bedtime tonight.'

Education Endowment Foundation (2018)
Preparing for Literacy: Improving Communication, Language and Literacy in the Early Years. Education Endowment Foundation: London.
Available online: eef.li/literacy-early-years

Education Endowment Foundation (2019).
Improving Literacy in Secondary Schools. Education Endowment Foundation: London.
Available online: eef.li/literacy-ks3-ks4

Breadmore, H.L., Vardy, E.J., Cunningham, A.J., Kwok, R.K.W., & Carroll, J.M. (2019).
Literacy Development: Evidence Review. Education Endowment Foundation: London.
Available online: educationendowmentfoundation.org.uk/public/files/Literacy_Development_Evidence_Review.pdf

Questions to ask while reading with your child

It's important to ask questions when you are reading to your child and when your child is reading to you. You can ask questions before, during and after reading. Questions can help you to see whether your child has understood what you've read together. You can ask your child about:

Words

Find a word that means the same as...

Find a word which best describes the mood /character at this point in the story.

What does this word mean?

Finding information

What are the characters called?

Who is telling the story?

What word is used to describe the ...?

Summing it up

What's happened so far?

What do you think is the most important point in in this paragraph/page?

What is the main message in this story/poem/text? Why?

Using clues

How is the character feeling at this point in the story? How do you know?

Why do you think the character did that?

Can you explain why...?

How can you tell that...?

What the author means

What do you think the author meant by ____?

How does the author create this mood/atmosphere?

Why do you think the author used that word/phrase?

Predictions

What do you think might happen next?

If there was a sequel, what do you think might happen? Why?

What do you think would happen if...?

Making comparisons

How does the character's mood/attitude change from the beginning to the end of the story?

How is this character/plot similar/different to...?

Have you ever read another book similar to this?

How is it similar?

The Whole Text

Why do you think the writer has written/organised the text like this?

Who do you think this was written for? Why?

Talk, Talk, Talk!

Talking with your child is one of the most powerful activities you can do. Use a wide range of vocabulary and try to use new words they have discovered when reading. Enter into discussions or debates with your child about issues they care about and talk through ideas they have for their writing. All of this talk will help them to develop vocabulary and refine their ideas for writing.

Be storytellers!

Photographs, objects and images are a great way to stimulate memory and imagination. Explore your home, looking for photographs or objects that trigger memories. A pair of special shoes, photos of a family day out or a precious gift can be a great starting point for telling a story. Tell your own stories/memories to your child and let them tell theirs to you.

Handwriting

In Year 4, your child will continue to develop fluent handwriting skills, making their writing more consistent and easier to read. This includes:

- joining letters whenever appropriate
- making sure that letters look consistent throughout writing
- keeping the spacing between lines of writing parallel and consistent.

Sit at a desk

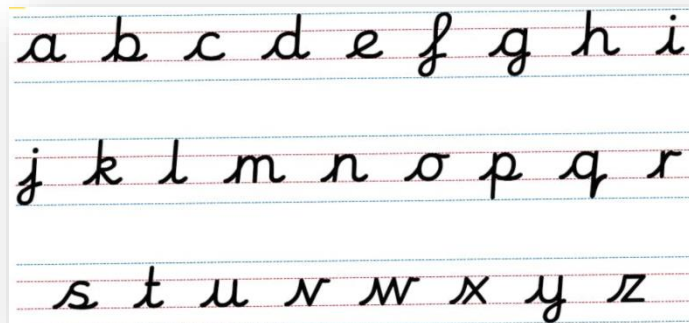

Put both feet on the floor

Left hand paper position

Right hand paper position

Audience and Purpose

Encourage your child to think about who they are writing for and why they are writing. This will help them to make their writing more effective.

Who are you writing to?

What are you writing for?

How do you want to make your reader feel?

Check and progress!

A great way to help your child to improve their writing is to encourage them to read aloud what they have written. Can they spot any missed punctuation? Can they spot any spelling errors? Can they add in extra detail?

How can you motivate your child to write?

Make sure your child knows their work doesn't have to be perfect first time. They can go back and make improvements later.

Share your own writing. Let your child see you writing. Whether it be a postcard to a family member, a journal entry or text messages, let your child know you're using your writing skills for real purpose.

Encourage your child to write about their interests and hobbies. Let them use a computer if they'd prefer to type and they engage more in their writing.

Writing checklist:

Is your child using capital letters, full stops and question and exclamation marks in the right place?

Can your child use these words in their writing:
when, before, after, while, so, because, then, next, soon, therefore, before, after, during, in?

Can your child use speech marks “ ” to show when someone is speaking?
(Direct speech)

Does your child stay in the same tense throughout their writing?
e.g. past tense

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/articles/zh4thbk>

Can your child read aloud, with expression, what they have read?

Can your child spell these tricky words?

accident, accidentally, actual, actually, address, answer, appear, arrive, believe, bicycle, breath, breathe, build, busy, business, calendar, caught, centre, century, certain, circle, complete, consider, continue, decide, describe, different, difficult, disappear, early, earth, eight, eighth, enough, exercise, experience, experiment, extreme, famous, favourite, February, forward, forwards, fruit, grammar, group, guard, guide, heard, heart, height, history, imagine, increase, important, interest, island, knowledge, learn, length, library, material, medicine, mention, minute, natural, naughty, notice, occasion, occasionally, often, opposite, ordinary, particular, peculiar, perhaps, popular, position, possess, possession, possible, potatoes, pressure, probably, promise, purpose, quarter, question, recent, regular, reign, remember, sentence, separate, special, straight, strange, strength, suppose, surprise, therefore, though, although, thought, through, various, weight, woman, women

Can your child tell you what these words are/mean?

adverb	a word that describes a verb or adjective. e.g. quietly, above, yesterday, very, sometimes
preposition	linking words that tell us where or when something is happening. e.g. under, on, while, down conjunction	a word that links sentences together. e.g. and, but, or, so, because, when, after, while
word family	words that are related to each other. e.g. teach → teacher, medic → medical → medicine
prefix	added at the beginning of a word to make a new word. e.g. disappear, overtake, enjoy clause	a special type of phrase https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pWS3Cbf5h9U subordinate clause	a clause that relies on another part of the sentence. It cannot be a sentence by itself.
direct speech	a sentence which contains the exact words spoken, surrounded by speech marks “ ”
consonant	most of the letters on the alphabet represent consonants except a, e, i, o, u consonant letter vowel	the letter ‘y’ sometimes acts like a vowel. e.g. rhythm
vowel letter	a, e, i, o, u
inverted commas (or ‘speech marks’)	“ ” The punctuation marks used for direct speech.

Other ways you can make a big difference

Look for opportunities to give your child some real-life reasons to write. You could try out some of these ideas:

- Write a lockdown letter to cheer up a family member, a friend or a neighbour. Post it together. You might even start a pen pal tradition! You could include artwork too if this is something your child enjoys doing.
- Is there an issue your child cares passionately about? Encourage them to write to a local MP or business to see whether they can create change. This kind of writing can make big differences in the community.
- Work together to send a tweet to your child's favourite author. Many authors are now on Twitter and love to engage with their readers. What would your child like to ask their favourite author?
- Your child might like to write the book version of a film or TV programme for younger children to read. If your child has watched something they've really enjoyed, they could try and tell the same story in writing. Watching the story on screen can give them a great starting point to get going with.
- If you've had a recent visit to a park, library or museum, etc that you have enjoyed with your child, help them to add a review on <https://www.tripadvisor.co.uk/>. Having a real audience who will read their review will often motivate children to write.
- Write book reviews for books your child has read. <https://www.lovereadings4kids.co.uk/> is a great website for this.
- Could your child start a blog around their own interest?

©School Improvement Liverpool 2020